

Perfluoroalkylated Substances (PFAS)

What are PFAS?

Human made “forever”
chemicals that do not break down easily.

Products That May Contain PFAS

Fast food packaging

Non-stick cookware

Waterproof items

The Role of Public Health

Monitor risks.

Inform the public.

Advocate for stronger protections.

Possible Health Effects

It is not known what dose of PFAS leads to health effects.

Certain types of cancer.

Liver effects.

Lower immune response.

Lower birth weights.

Contact Us

705-474-1400 x 5400

1-800-563-2808

environmental.health@healthunit.ca

Learn More

Water Treatment Devices

A home filter can be an effective way to reduce PFAS levels, and there are many types of filters available at different price points.